The University of Saint Mary Presents “Bites & Terabytes: Exploring Technological Frontiers”
Inaugural Series Sponsored by De Paul Library and the Honors Program

(Leavenworth, Kan.)—The University of Saint Mary De Paul Library and the Honors Program co-present the inaugural four-week innovation and technology series, “Bites & Terabytes: Exploring Technological Frontiers.” The series kicked off Monday, Jan. 23 with a hands-on presentation called “Frog Safety: Intro Workshop on Game Design and Machine Logic,” and it will continue its Monday feature presentations until Feb. 13.

The final two sessions are free and open to the public—both at 11 a.m. in USM’s De Paul Library Active Learning Center. Refreshments and dessert provided.

- Feb. 6 — "What’s Your Password?“—Cybersecurity in Today’s World
  Sunny Sun, USM Assistant Professor of Computer Information Systems

- Feb. 13 — Make It at the Library
  Nick Ward-Bopp, Johnson County Public Library MakerSpace Facilitator

Data breaches continue to happen around the world, and while companies continue to fight the good fight, Sun will take a look at how end-users can better protect themselves in his presentation, “What’s Your Password” on Monday, Feb. 6. He’ll also dive into the shocking ways cybercriminals steal identities, hack into accounts, and infect devices with malware.

On Monday, Feb. 13, Ward-Bopp, Johnson County Public Library MakerSpace facilitator, will explore the thrill of experimentation and local resources available to self-taught tinkerers of all ages. From fabricating a prototype to tracking down a 3D printer, this presentation is all about bringing an innovator’s dream to reality.

Questions about the series can be directed to Danielle Dion, director of De Paul Library, at Danielle.Dion@stmary.edu.

USM Welcomes the National Library of Medicine Exhibit ‘Against the Odds: Making a Difference in Global Health’

Opening Reception | 11 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 26 | De Paul Library

(Leavenworth, Kan.)—The University of Saint Mary will showcase an acclaimed National Library of Medicine Exhibit, “Against the Odds: Making a Difference in Global Health,” in De Paul Library on USM’s Leavenworth campus, 4100 South 4th Street. The exhibit will be on display Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m.-9:30 p.m., Fridays from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m., and Sundays from 5:30 p.m.-9:30 p.m. through Saturday, Dec. 2.

The opening lunch and learn for the event will be from 11 a.m.-noon Wednesday, Oct. 26, in the De Paul Library Active Learning Center. Dr. Sarah Kessler of the University of Kansas Medical Center, an applauded HIV/AIDS researcher, will address global health issues. On Friday, Nov. 4 from 11 a.m.-noon, a second lunch and learn will spotlight Dr. Geoff Peterson, USM class of 2009. He’ll speak in the De Paul Library Activating Learning Center about his work as a dentist in the public health arena—closer to home—in Missouri. Both events are free and open to the public with a light lunch served courtesy of USM’s Lawrence D. Starr Center for Peace & Justice (CPJ).

“Against the Odds” captures the revolution in global health taking place in villages and towns across the world. In collaboration with scientist, advocates, governments, and international organizations, communities are working to prevent disease and improve quality of life by taking action. These groups are recognizing the spectrum of factors causing illness and addressing deep-rooted issues like health practices, conflict, and discrimination—while also embracing the challenges of the past and supporting the belief that future hope and change rests in those directly affected by illness.

This exhibit compliments USM’s course Special Topics: Global Health, a course examining the ongoing, growing, and changing health care challenges the world faces through the lens of science, health care, business, history, and politics. Dr. Caroline Mackintosh, chair of the department of natural sciences and mathematics, and biology program director and co-instructor of this course, said, “Our students are reading research and assessing the incredible interconnectedness of legal, economic, and social frameworks on the state of health in our country and across the world. The exhibit will add even greater clarity to this union—giving our students, faculty and staff, and the public an opportunity to better understand the issues and the ongoing fight for change in global health.”

Contact Dr. Mackintosh at 913-758-6161 or Caroline.Mackintosh@stmary.edu for more information on the exhibit, “Against the Odds.”
USM Celebrates International Day of Peace with Second-Generation Holocaust Speaker Joyce Hess

11 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 21 | De Paul Library Active Learning Center

(Leavenworth, Kan.)—The University of Saint Mary will celebrate the United Nations International Day of Peace at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 21 in USM’s De Paul Library Active Learning Center with a moving presentation from special-guest Joyce Hess, president of the Board of Directors of the Midwest Center for Holocaust Education and member of the Second Generation Speakers Bureau.

The event is free and open to the public. A light lunch will be served.

Hess will share the unimaginable first-hand experiences of her mother, Sonia Goland, during World War II as a middle-class Jew in Vilna (the capital of Lithuania today; originally, in Poland). Goland's family tried to escape the wrath of Nazi rule, but couldn't—which is where her story of hope, loss, and strength begins.

"Ms. Hess' presentations are always moving and personable, and truly capture the heart of GSI’s mission—peace," said Dr. Karenbeth Zacharias, director of USM’s Starr GSI and assistant professor of history.

For more information on the event, email Dr. Zacharias at Karenbeth.Zacharias@stmary.edu.

The Lawrence D. Starr Global Studies Institute (GSI) is a professional academic organization dedicated to the examination of global integration and to the promotion of attitudes, policies, and practices that foster peace, justice, generosity, and the equitable enrichment of life for all members of the global community.
